——— That leave be given to bring in a Bill to amend the Corn Importation Act, 497.

——— That certain voluntary Associations denominated Political Unions, are "subversive of the authority of the Crown, unconstitutional and illegal;" and that His Majesty's Ministers will be fully justified in enforcing the Law of the Land for their suppression, and for the suppression of all Political Unions, be their denominations what they may, of which the nature, principles, design and operation are subversive of the authority of the Crown, unconstitutional and illegal, 529.

——— For reading a second time the Larceny Bill, 532.

QUESTIONS, PREVIOUS, passed in the NEGATIVE:

——— That it is the Opinion of this House that the existence of Sinecure Offices, and Offices executed by Deputy in the Army and Navy Departments is unnecessary and inexpedient as a means of remunerating Public Service, 42.

——— That the present system of Corn Laws, founded upon a high and ever varying Scale of Duty, while it fails in conferring permanent benefit on the Agricultural Interest, tends to cramp the Trade, and to impair the general prosperity of this Country; that an alteration in the principle of these Laws, to one of a moderate Duty, fixed at all periods except those of extreme dearth, while it would indemnify the Agriculturist from the peculiar burthens to which he is subjected, would, by restoring the commercial relations between this Kingdom and the Corn-exporting Countries of the World, tend to improve the Trade, increase the Manufactures, and render more equable the price of Agricultural Produce, 407.

——— That an humble Address be presented to His Majesty, that He will be graciously pleased not to recognize, or in any way give the sanction of His Government to the present political state and condition of Poland, the same having been brought about in violation of the Treaty of Vienna, to which Great Britain was a Party, 560.

——— That leave be given to bring in a Bill for shortening the Duration of Parliaments, 595.

——— That it is the Duty of this House to avail itself of the present period of profound Peace to institute an inquiry for the purpose of ascertaining whether some mode may not be devised for manning His Majesty's Ships in time of War, without recourse to the practice of forcible Impressment, 675.

QUESTIONS, PREVIOUS, resolved in the AFFIRMATIVE:

——— That it is the opinion of this House, that the reduction of Taxation and the diminution of the Public Burthens by every attention to economy, are objects of paramount importance, and that, in justice to the people who pay Taxes, all Sinecure Places not merited by Public Services should be abolished throughout the British Empire, 577.
